Natural Resources Wales

The purpose of Natural Resources Wales (NRW) is to ensure that the natural resources of Wales are sustainably maintained, used and enhanced, now and in the future. Its responsibilities include educating, enabling and advising industry, the voluntary sector and the wider public on issues relating to the environment and natural resources.

NRW can offer grants to local authorities, environmental organisations and voluntary bodies. Grants are offered to deliver projects that benefit both people and wildlife. Grants from NRW are also offered on an application basis to organisations and groups with registered charity status.

Wales Environment Link

Wales Environment Link (WEL) is the umbrella body for environmental and countryside non-governmental organisations (NGO) in Wales. It is a network, active in a range of policy areas, and is the official link between the Welsh Government and Wales' environmental NGO (eNGO) sector.

WEL is:

- a mechanism and framework to help Welsh eNGOs to achieve collective goals;
- a voice for the environment movement in Wales;
- a route of communication and dialogue between eNGOs and government; and
- an information provider.
